

City Comptroller Declines to Register Medicare Advantage Contract, Sparking Hope for Retirees

In "City Comptroller Declines to Register Medicare Advantage Contract, Sparking Hope for Retirees" (Crain's New York Business, June 8, 2023), Crain's covers the latest development in City Hall's attempt to force 250,000 municipal retirees into a single Medicare advantage plan. New York City Comptroller Brad Lander has refused to register the contract between the City and Aetna, citing legal concerns and echoing the concerns of the retirees.

The retirees are represented by Steve Cohen of Pollock Cohen; and by Jacob Gardener of Walden Macht & Haran.
