

This Federal Judge Can't Stop Torching Arbitration

In "This Federal Judge Can't Stop Torching Arbitration" (Law360, January 17, 2024), Law360 discusses how a Massachusetts federal judge grumbled about the U.S. Supreme Court precedent requiring him to send a wage and hour lawsuit to arbitration. The judge's comments gave a glimpse into how he understands the out-of-court process as one that undermines wronged workers' ability to pursue justice. To read the article, click on the link below (subscription may be required).

This Federal Judge Can't Stop Torching Arbitration | Law360