The Rachel Maddow Show: Former Attorney General Questions Trump's $175 Million Bond

In, "Former Attorney General Questions Trump's $175 Million Bond" (MSNBC TRMS, April 8, 2024), Pollock Cohen managing partner Adam Pollock joined Rachel Maddow to talk about former President Trump's questionable lenders and the intersection with the bond he posted to stave off the New York Attorney General's seizure of his assets.

Adam noted that the bond story will continue with the hearing Justice Engoron will hold on April 22, 2024, a hearing where Adam feels it is unlikely Justice Engoron will have any patience for Trump's "financial chicanery".

Adam also noted that Trump's criminal trial will be getting underway on April 15, 2024 at the courthouse across the street.

To view the segment, click on the link below.

Former Attorney General Questions Trump's $175 Million Bond | MSNBC TRMS