

New York Post: Reversing Course, NYC Teachers Union President Mike Mulgrew Now Opposes Changes To Medicare Coverage

In “Reversing Course, NYC Teachers Union President Mike Mulgrew Now Opposes Changes To Medicare Coverage” (New York Post, June 24, 2024), the New York Post discusses how United Federation of Teachers president Michael Mulgrew has withdrawn support for the controversial Medicare Advantage plan that the City has been trying to impose on 250,000 municipal retirees. Mulgrew’s change of heart came after his slate of allies got trounced in union elections last week. Pollock Cohen partner Steve Cohen represents the retirees in this on-going battle.
