Law360: Pornhub Gets Initial Nod For $120M Child Content Class Deal

In “Law360: Pornhub Gets Initial Nod For $120M Child Content Class Deal” (Law360, November 6, 2026), Law360 discusses U.S. District Judge Wesley L. Hsu's decision to grant preliminary approval to a $120 million settlement which would resolve two class actions filed against MindGeek SARL and affiliated entities – the companies behind Pornhub. The class action lawsuits, filed in California and Alabama, allege that MindGeek and affiliated entities profited from crimes such as child sex trafficking and sexual abuse material.

Pollock Cohen LLP partner Steve Cohen represents the California class alongside Krysta Kauble Pachman, Halley Wilder Josephs, Davida P. Brook, Rohit D. Nath, Nicholas N. Spear, Emily K. Cronin and Christina M. Dieckmann of Susman Godfrey LLP.
