

Time To Be Honest: College Admissions Not A Level Playing Field

In “Time To Be Honest: College Admissions Not A Level Playing Field” (The Hill, September 21, 2020), Steve Cohen discusses the Varsity Blues college admissions scandal and the college admissions process. He maintains that, “College admissions is not a level playing field. Given the revelations that have emerged from the dozens of wealthy families who tried to beat the system, and the COVID-19-triggered changes to academics and campus life, the system is teetering. Let’s not waste a good crisis: We can make college admissions fairer, more transparent, less angst-ridden, and far less prone to corruption.”

To see the full article, click on the link below (subscription may be required).

Time To Be Honest: College Admissions Not A Level Playing Field | The Hill