Matt is a legal analyst at Pollock Cohen. He graduated with honors from Georgetown University in 2022 with a BSFS in Regional Studies of Asia with a minor in Chinese. At Georgetown, he served as CEO of The Corp, the largest entirely student-run non-profit in the world, which employs over 350 undergrads and funds thousands of dollars in philanthropic and community development work. In the classroom, his academic interests focused on Chinese history and politics, culminating in an honors thesis on gender politics and feminist policies in Mao-era China.

After graduation, Matt spent a year living in Taipei, Taiwan on a language fellowship, continuing to improve his proficiency in Mandarin Chinese while exploring Taiwanese culture.
